

Secret Message Box

A Message for Someone Special!

Beginner: Write or draw messages for family members or friends, placing them in a decorated message box.

[Tip]: Use shoe or tissue boxes, as well as stickers, markers, images, or paint for decoration. After decorating, read the messages together.

Intermediate: Have everyone create and decorate their own message box, and share simple messages with one another.

[Tip]: Encourage your child to write letters or sound out words in their messages.

Experienced: Encourage your child to write messages and memories to save in their own message box.

[Tip]: These can be read at a special time, like the end of the school year or New Year's Eve.

Why is this important? Messages have meaning and can have a big impact on others.

References: Chohan, S. K. (2011). Any letter for me? Relationships between an elementary school letter writing program and student attitudes, literacy achievement, and friendship culture. Early Childhood Education Journal, 39(1), 39–50. <https://doi.org/10.1007/s10643-010-0438-5>

Hill, B. C. (2001). Developmental continuums: A framework for literacy instruction and assessment K-8. Christopher Gordon Pub.